

MERRITT C. BECKER, JR.

UNO TRANSPORTATION INSTITUTE

New UNO Master of Transportation Information Session

DETAILS

Date: Monday, April 13th

Time: 6:00 p.m. – 7:30 p.m

Location: UNO University Center

Room: Innsbruck B (second floor, 211 B)

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Carol Short

Associate Director | Transportation Studies

cshort2@uno.edu

368 Milneburg Hall

transportation.uno.edu

OVERVIEW

The new executive format Master of Science in Transportation (MST) degree at the University of New Orleans is the first degree of its kind in the state. The program, which will launch in the fall semester of 2015, will also be one of the first in the United States that will train students in multimodal freight and passenger transportation systems.

The MST is designed for traditional students and working professionals seeking career advancement or a specialized career in transportation planning or administration. It will be offered in a hybrid online and on-campus format that will provide students with the flexibility of an online program and the benefits of concentrated on-campus meetings that will allow students to build a professional network with classmates, instructors and industry-affiliated partners.